

Abstract

System, including apparatus and method, involves processing materials in opposite directions between two machines along a processing path.